I. READING COMPREHENSION

Read the text and answer the questions

THE TEXT

- ① On her first day back to work after a four-month maternity leave, Amy Vachon woke up early to nurse her daughter, Maia. Then, she fixed herself a healthful breakfast, prepared a bottle of milk for the girl to drink later, kissed her goodbye and headed for the door. But before she left, she reached over to her husband Marc, who would not be going to work that day in order to be home with Maia. She handed him a list on which she scribbled the "how much", "how long" and "when" of Maia's napping and eating.
- The Vachons would not be the kind of parents theirs had been. Instead, they would create their own model, one in which they were parenting partners. After Maia was born, Amy and Marc negotiated part-time schedules: How often should the dishes be done? What constitutes "doing the laundry"? Washing it, folding it or ironing it?
- 3 Slowly, an agreement has emerged. The cooking is done by whoever is home that day. The laundry is done in the same way. Gender should not determine the division of work at home. The point they say, is to think over the chores you are doing with "no nagging", "no arguing" but mutual understanding.
