(1) Education is an important part of British life. It is free and compulsory for all children between the ages of 5 and 16.

(2) Children's education in England is normally divided into two stages: Primary school and Secondary School. At school, pupils study a number of compulsory interesting subjects like English and History and some optional subjects like music and drama.

(3) Students attend school from Monday to Friday, from 09:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. The first thing they have to do at the beginning of each day is to attend the assembly. During the assembly, the headmaster talks about school life. The assembly lasts a quarter of an hour and lessons start at a quarter past nine.

(4) Students have a lunch break from twelve o'clock to a quarter to one. They can stay at school for lunch. They can eat hot meals at the school canteen or a packed lunch from home. Afternoon lessons start at a quarter to one.

(5) Uniform is compulsory in English schools. Boys have to wear long grey or black trousers and a sweater. Girls generally wear shirts and skirts with long socks and black shoes.

Subject: My London Adventures

Dear John/Jane,

I hope this email finds you well. I'm writing to tell you about the amazing time I'm having in London with my friend Peter/Sarah.

On Monday, I arrived in London and met my friend. We took a relaxing walk in the park and captured some wonderful photos. On Tuesday, we visited the Tower of London, which was a fascinating experience. On Wednesday, we explored Trafalgar Square and enjoyed its vibrant atmosphere.

Next, I plan to visit the royal palaces on Friday. On Saturday, I'll buy some souvenirs to remember this trip. Finally, on Sunday, I'll rest and prepare to return to Tunisia. I can't wait to share more with you when I return. Take care and write back soon!

Best regards,

khawla
