

The reading text

1- When Brian left home in the morning, the sky was cloudy and a strong wind was blowing. The weather was getting cold and he was only wearing jacket which didn't keep him very warm; it was too light. It was really unpleasant to stand on the pavement waiting for the bus at a windy crossroads. His hands were freezing and his nose hurt because it was very cold.

2-The day began with a history lesson. "Brian Harington", said Miss Ashby, the history teacher, "tell me all you know about Queen Elizabeth I and the king or the queen who came before her . "poor Brian!! Was it a king or a queen? An Edward or a Charles or a Mary? Who came before whom?" He had no idea.... "very well, Brian, you're going to stay after school and learn it." "Oh! No!" thought Brian, "I'll have to work on history again after school!!!!"

3-Nobody waited for him. He had to walk home in the cold without his friends. When he arrived, dinner was already on the table. There were mutton and peas, which were not his favourite foods. He did not like mutton and peas!!! What a day!!!

III WRITING

On a website called teena[illegible]nswer it back.

Dear reader,

Life with my parents is unbearable. They treat me like a kid, no face book, no TV, no going out with my friends during the week days. What's more they ask me to work day and night to ameliorate my grades to be able to pass to the secondary school. I'd like to be a good pupil but I also need to enjoy myself. I'm lost. What should I do? The exams are next week.

Yours
Pam
